The Enforcer Racking Guard Protector is intended to protect rack legs and systems against scraping and impacts from all sides that may be caused by workplace vehicles like forklifts.

Racking guard protectors work by absorbing and deflecting impacts. In order to avoid damage and keep the racking system's structural integrity, the protector transfers the energy from impact around the rack leg rather than through it.

The Racking Guard Protector - Fits 100mm can help protect rack legs measuring 100mm along the cross-section.
